Rifles and Ammunition

If you bring your own rifle, we recommend the service of Henry Durrheim from Rifle Permits to assist you with the process. They are a company that works hand in hand with the South African Police Service to assist international travelers with all the import permits they will need to import their rifles into South Africa..

E-mail: henry@riflepermits.com
Website: <https://riflepermits.com/>

If you do not wish to bring your own firearm, we offer the option to rent firearms per day plus bullets.

What Caliber and How much Ammo?

We recommend a 270 or larger for Plains Game, a 375 or larger is required for Dangerous Game The rifle should be carried in a solid hard case. Only one firearm per caliber is allowed per person.

Ammunition is to be packed in a separate container, which has to be locked and marked with details. In total 11 pounds , not more than 200 rounds, is allowed per hunter. 40-60 rounds per rifle is sufficient.

Recommendations for Bowhunters?

Preferably a draw weight 65-70lbs, 50 lbs. min. Cut on impact broadheads such as G5 Montec, Steelhead, Muzzy or Slicktrick all work well. Shots are usually 30 yards max. Bring at least a dozen arrows. For dangerous game 80lbs with an arrow that must generate 90-foot lbs. of energy.

Booking Airfare

A direct flight to OR Tambo International Airport in Johannesburg is recommended. You will then take a connecting flight to Kimberley Airport, Northern Cape.

You will be in the care of your dedicated PH from the moment you step off the plane at Kimberley Airport and will drive you to the hunting lodge.

Our recommended Travel Counselor is Jeanne Thirion. Jeanne provides excellent services and competitive pricing. She also offers TRAVEL INSURANCE and is experienced in booking airfare for international hunters.

Professional Hunter: $150–$250 per day or 10% of the total bill.

Guide for observers: $20 – $50 per day.

Trackers, Skinners, Drivers: $350 – $500 for the safari.
